MT BACHELOR SCHEDULES SNOW PARTY FOR DECEMBER 13

Food and drink, retail discounts, rail park/tubing, entertainment, bonfire and more!

(Bend, Ore) – Mt. Bachelor does not know if there will be enough snow to open for the season by Saturday, Dec. 13, but the ski area is already making plans for a party on that date anyway. A “Pray for Snow” party is scheduled from noon until 4 p.m. at Mt. Bachelor’s West Village Lodge.

Guests are invited to enjoy entertainment, take in the glow of a crackling bonfire, watch ski/snowboard films, slide rails or go tubing, or sample fare at the outdoor barbeque. The rail park and tubing will be weather dependant. All Mt. Bachelor Season Pass holders will be offered one complimentary beverage ticket for the event and receive 20% off any gear or accessory purchase at Mt. Bachelor Ski and Sports.

“We may or may not be open for season by that time, but that’s not going to stop us from planning for a good time. We are in the mood to get things started for our 50th anniversary season whether Mother Nature decides to cooperate or not,” said Dave Rathbun, president and general manager. “Maybe she will get the hint and actually jump in to have some fun with us all.”

Mt. Bachelor is planning to open for the season once snow conditions allow. Current forecasts indicate a return to winter weather conditions next week.
